

JobSkill is our Recognition of Prior Learning (RPL) assessment service which involves recognising a candidate's existing skills and knowledge by assessing them against NZQA unit standards. The programme is a free service and is conducted in the participant's workplace.

KEY BENEFITS

- › Employees will have their basic skills, knowledge and experience recognised and validated. There is also an opportunity to complete additional unit standards to validate any specialised knowledge and skills.
- › Employers are able to set standards for all staff and develop a formalised approach to training throughout the organisation, focusing on developing skills and knowledge in new areas rather than re-training.
- › Facilitates staff retention and reduces turnover.
- › Creates a positive learning environment for staff.
- › Provides a career pathway.

WHO SHOULD ATTEND

- › Experienced employees within the meat industry who have little or no formal qualifications.

NZQA UNIT STANDARDS ACHIEVED

Trainees who successfully complete the programme will achieve various unit standards and an NZQA National Certificate in the following subject areas:

- › National Certificate in Meat Processing – Introductory
- › National Certificate in Meat Processing – Slaughter and Dressing with strands in Evisceration, Slaughter and Opening and Clearing Skins

- › National Certificate in Meat Processing – Further Processing with strands in Boning, Dispatching, Packaging, Quartering, Saw Operations and Trimming
- › National Certificate in Meat Processing – Associated Processes with strands in Offal Products, Rendering and Casings and Calibrations
